Mistake to Change Wheat Grade Basis

George Hill, chairman of the Grain Appraisal Board, agrees with Dean Butterfield, of the University of Saskatchewan, that it would be a serious mistake to change the existing laws of grading Canadian wheat.

"I think Dean Butterfield has entirely the right idea," said Mr. Hill, when his attention was called to the speaker's remarks at the annual meeting of the Western Canadian Society of Agronomists. "Will either party suggest a change in the present basis of grading Canadian wheat would be a step in the wrong direction because samples of grain high in protein are often 'yielders of flour'."

Mr. Hill said that generally speaking, cereals have been largely bought and sold on the basis of appearance, and that it was physically impossible to make tests of wheat whereby the buyer was able to know that he was getting the full value of his sample. "It has taken us 40 years to build up our reputation for Canadian wheat in the world's market," he said, "and it would be a great pity to destroy this by adopting some other method of classification."

Expense Would Be Great
If wheat was sold on a protein content, said Mr. Hill, it would require an army of chemists spread over the wheat growing areas, each car would have to be specially loaded and one or two chemists would be required at every point, all highly paid positions. That would entail considerable expense, which, of course, the farmer would have to pay. Again the difficulty of the increase at the point of sale owing to the large margin of profit in the wheat trade, all differing in price content. But file probably the highest grade wheat, that variety of wheat had no use in the country, and would have to be shipped to a foreign market.

"I think Dean Butterfield's suggestion is the best," said Mr. Hill, "and when the matter is discussed by the committee of the association," added Mr. Hill.

Advocates Censorship of Wheat Reports

"A national censorship on wheat reports from transmissible sources before the official reports were made public, was advocated at Winnipeg by J. G. MacKinnon, prominent agriculturist, of Brandon. He referred to the frequent cases of wheat being sold at a price below the actual value and said that a censorship of the wheat reports would be a most effective way of preventing this."

Mr. MacKinnon said that he thought that if the government at Ottawa could establish a censorship of wheat reports, it would be a most effective way of preventing this throughout the world would be required immediately by the actual value of the wheat.

The Revaluation of Soldier Lands

Further notice for soldier settlers under the Soldier Settlement Act is now under consideration at Ottawa in the form of a revaluation of land, with the information given by Walter Walker, president of the Alberta command G.W.A., on Friday, on the return from Ottawa where he attended the conference of G.W.A. provincial representatives.

The proposal, according to the provincial president, is to have a revaluation based on three months in each district to revalue the land. On this board would be one representative of the Soldier Settlement Board, the second the piece of the district, and the third to be selected by the two.

For some time, it was stated, the G.W.A. has been pressing for relief to soldier settlers in the form of revaluation of land and a reduction in the price paid for stock. At the last session of parliament provision was made for a reduction in the price of stock to 20 per cent for the first year of the provision to October, 1926, and 20 per cent for the second year.

It was information from an authoritative source that revaluation of soldier settlement land will be possible in the near future. "It is this in effect," said Mr. Walker, "that will be a long way toward making it possible for these settlers to make good. It is well-known fact that they purchased their land and many have found it extremely difficult to make farming a success under the conditions."

Says Canada Controls Market

The following appeared recently in an English newspaper: "The present price of the 4th lot in Sheffield in 1911. It was increased to that price in the December 10th of a result in the price of the wheat. It was increased to that price in the December 10th of a result in the price of the wheat. It was increased to that price in the December 10th of a result in the price of the wheat."

The Recent Assessment

In last report the trustees, dealing with the recent assessment, said: "On March 18, J. M. McNulty, of the Northern Trust Co., Calgary, was engaged to measure the improvements and personal property of the school district. The result of the new assessment was that this was increased from $200,125 to $410,000, but at the point of revision 17 appeals were heard against the new assessment and resulted in a reduction of the assessment to $355,820, this amount being further reduced by $2,000 on appeal heard taken to the limit court. The trustees decided to accept the new municipal assessment for $355,820 and also reduced the reduction on road taxes from $266,720 to $118,805. This left the assessment for village taxes $279,020 and road taxes $176,805, making the total assessment $455,825, or $150,007 less than the previous year. There was also a reduction of $10,000 in the assessment of real property in the village, assessed by the village and the 234 taxpayers. The total assessment for the year was $455,825, or $150,007 less than the previous year."

Inspection Of Food Animals

Veterinary Inspectors Stationed at the Large Packing Plants

A great amount of work was done during the last year by the inspectors of the Division of Health of the animal branch in inspecting food animals, meats and their products. The report of the veterinary director shows that in the year ending March 31, 1935, the inspection service handled 4,386,000 carcasses of slaughtered meat animals of which only half of one per cent. were condemned as unfit for human food.

The hog is the predominant meat from the standpoint of numbers, the total slaughter of hogs at the packing establishments being 2,860,623 compared with 917,465 cattle and 966 sheep.

These veterinary inspectors who carry out this work are stationed at the large packing plants throughout the country. They make rigid ante and post-mortem examinations of animals and carcasses and closely supervise slaughtering and sanitary conditions, and are therefore in a position to guarantee the wholesomeness and freedom from disease of all meats and meat products emanating from the supervised establishments. In this way the splendid reputation of Canadian meat foods has been fully maintained and the demand for spe-

French Foreign Legion Provides

On the coast of the French Foreign Legion on which is falling the brunt of the campaign against the German profiteers now in its ranks to meet any emergency? Its commander once said that his men were capable not only of winning a battle but of holding their own in a Cession, when a new barracks had been erected, the legionnaires pulled half a dozen qualified architects from their ranks to design and build the new barracks. When the call has been for them, Legionnaires have stopped working and acknowledged their modification of the original design. One day when no paper was available to send a burial, the commandant asked the legionnaires to write. A single sheet of paper was salvaged. It had one word on it—paper. It had one on a bishop.
